

ELDERLY RESIDENT DIES

Abraham Olematon, Owner of Willowfield Manor, died on Friday around midday. Although known largely as a recluse, it was on a rare venture outside his estate that Mr. Olematon suddenly dropped dead of natural causes. His exact age is unknown. He had lived in the manor for many years and was known to love it, leaving it behind as an impressive legacy to his son and heir, Mr. Samuel Olematon. A funeral will be held tomorrow at The Mother's Temple on Elling Lane, in the cemetery of which he will also be interred.

JAZZ PIANIST WANTED

Still seeking a piano player for jazz quintet. Needs to fit in with well-experienced band, be prepared to play long hours, good tips. If wanting further details or desiring an audition, please telephone 888 or write to The Tollund